

Speaker 1: I rely on my healthcare from work to protect my family, but I know it can't protect against everything. If something more serious comes up—like cancer—there would be extra costs that my medical insurance doesn't cover. That's why Cancer Insurance can be so important—it helps alleviate the financial burden that comes with what can be a life-changing situation.

When I got my diagnosis, I was very concerned, and part of that concern was how we'd afford the extra expenses and how it would impact our life. With Cancer Insurance, I got a lump-sum payment that really helped with things like prescriptions, my deductible, testing and even went towards the cost of experimental treatment. I feel more comfortable and confident that my family, and our way of life, is protected, thanks to my MetLife Cancer Insurance, and you can, too. Enroll through work.
